Compartilhar a estrutura do RG que hospeda os recursos (Azure - Resource visualizer)

The screenshot shows the Microsoft Azure Resource visualizer interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with links like 'Home', 'rg-manual-web00001', and 'Resource visualizer'. Below the navigation is a search bar and a toolbar with icons for 'Choose resources', 'Reset diagram', 'Zoom to fit', 'Refresh', 'Export', and 'List view'. The main area features a diagram illustrating the architecture of a virtual machine. At the top is a 'Virtual machine' node ('vm-manual-web00001'). It has two outgoing connections: one to a 'Disk' node ('vm-manual-web00001-disk') and one to a 'Network interface' node ('vm-manual-web00001-1923'). The 'Disk' node has a connection to a 'Public IP address' node ('vm-manual-web00001-ip'). The 'Network interface' node has connections to a 'Virtual network' node ('vm-manual-web00001-vnet') and a 'Network security group' node ('vm-manual-web00001-nsg'). On the left side, there's a sidebar with sections like 'Overview', 'Activity log', 'Access control (IAM)', 'Tags', and 'Resource visualizer' (which is currently selected). Under 'Resource visualizer', there are links for 'Events', 'Settings', 'Cost Management', 'Monitoring', 'Automation', and 'Help'. At the bottom of the interface, there are buttons for 'Give feedback' and 'Tell us about your experience with resource visualizer'.
